- Carry-on luggage should contain your travel documents, medicines, and anything that you could not do without during your mission trip. It's a good idea to bring anything that you may need for the first 24 hours in your carry-on luggage, should anything happen to your suitcase en route. A set of toiletries (within airline standards) and a set of clean clothes are nice if you have space. Place any liquids under 2 ounces in a quart-size zip lock baggie. Scissors, pocket knives, and any liquids over 3 ounces must be placed in your checked bag. An empty water bottle is handy to have to go through security, then you may fill it with water before getting on the airplane. Check <http://www.tsa.gov/> for more details.
- Cell phones can be carried for travel but will be collected upon arrival and then returned to you when we leave for the airport. Other electronics needed for study times are ok to bring but are reserved for study purposes only. Leave everything else at home and unplug!
